Four Class of 2017 students have alumni parents

Patrick Chancy’s parents (left) are Hugh (’88) and Tina (’88) Chancy, owners of Chancy Drugs in Hahira. Patrick grew up watching his parents work with their patients in the pharmacy.

Mary Catherine “Katie” Ferguson (right) is the daughter of Gerald (’78) and Mary (’78) Riggins, owners of Riggins Pharmacy in Lavonia. Katie used to play “being a pharmacist” when she was a little girl and enjoyed working with patients and others in the medical field.

Amanda “Paige” Hughes’ mother Linda (’85) (left) is a public service assistant in the Division of Experience Programs at the College of Pharmacy. Paige is interested in pediatric pharmacy.

Laura Youseff (right) of Marietta is the daughter of Suzanne Youseff (’88), a pharmacy team leader at the Aflac Cancer Center at Children’s Healthcare of Atlanta at Egleston. Laura appreciates the pharmacists’ service to the community and their role in patient care.
