Parham Receives STAR Award for Fourth Quarter 2014

Lynn Parham, a program coordinator II with the University of Georgia College of Pharmacy's Division of Experience Programs, has been named recipient of the College of Pharmacy's STAR award for the fourth quarter of 2014.

Parham provides program management that includes overseeing, maintaining and updating preceptor, site and student information (including scheduling, evaluations and portfolios) for advanced pharmacy practice experiences (APPEs). She also monitors and communicates with faculty and students of all ongoing and new site requirements related to student background checks, drug screens, orientation process and paperwork.

Parham has served the College for 13 years and received the Employee of the Year Award in 2012.

According to the selection committee endorsement, Parham's "tremendous service to our college extends much farther than just to faculty and staff. She assists students every day with any need regardless if it pertains to experience programs. She exemplifies teamwork especially with helping out all of the college's departments and divisions. She is very knowledgeable about helpful resources to create solutions with any unforeseen problems or needs. She is a mainstay of dependability in a storm of uncertainty. Accountability is one of her strongest attributes."

Initiated in 2012, the STAR award is presented each quarter to recognize staff members who have demonstrated STAR qualities – service, teamwork, attitude and reliability – in the performance of their duties. Recipients must be permanent employees who have worked at the College for at least one year; they may only receive the STAR award once each year.
