Employee of the year named; staff recognized

Lynn Parham has been named Employee of the Year for 2012 at the University of Georgia College of Pharmacy. As program coordinator in the Division of Experience Programs, her primary function is to provide support for the Advanced Pharmacy Practice Experience Program (APPE). She also serves as staff lead for the office and provides advice and counsel to the Introductory Pharmacy Practice Experiences (IPPE) faculty and staff on a variety of programmatic and database issues. In addition she is responsible for overseeing the mandatory student health insurance program and serves as primary liaison for the College with others in UGA’s Human Resources and Bursars offices. Although she has a demanding workload she is known to maintain a calm demeanor and helpful attitude. Parham has worked at the College for 13 years.

Six staff were also recognized at the Staff Awards luncheon for service to the College. Five-year employees were Arica Barfield, administrative associate, Clinical and Administrative Pharmacy program, Albany campus; Vivia Hill-Silcott, program coordinator for diversity; Kim McKenzie, administrative manager I, Clinical and Administrative Pharmacy; Bindu Pillai, research technician, Clinical and Administrative Pharmacy, Augusta campus; and Melba Shelton, associate accountant. Chicki George, program coordinator II, was recognized for 10 years of service.
