Faculty Panel Meets for Women’s History Month

Six female faculty at the University of Georgia College of Pharmacy fielded student questions about pursuing careers in pharmacy for women during a panel discussion that met for Women’s History Month. Their advice to enhance career success included taking advantage of opportunities, continuing professional education, maintaining professional standards, developing personal integrity and a sense of autonomy, and seeing adversity and career obstacles as a means to increase motivation.

The program was sponsored by the College’s Office of Diversity.

Faculty participants were Trina von Waldner, Eileen Kennedy, Shelley Hooks, Beth Phillips, Aaron Beedle and Deborah Elder.
